

December 1, 2025

Joint Committee on Public Safety and Homeland Security

The Honorable John Cronin, Chair
State House, Room 218
Boston, MA 02133

The Honorable Daniel Cahill, Chair
State House, Room 527A
Boston, MA 02133

RE: Testimony on bills heard by the Committee hearing on November 25, 2025

Chair Cronin, Chair Cahill, and distinguished members of the Joint Committee on Public Safety and Homeland Security:

Thank you for the opportunity to submit testimony on behalf of Children's HealthWatch in support of An Act to protect the civil rights and safety of all Massachusetts residents (S.1681/H.2580).

Children's HealthWatch seeks to achieve health equity for young children and their families by advancing research to transform policy. We accomplish this mission by interviewing caregivers of young children on the frontlines of pediatric care in urban emergency departments and primary care clinics in four cities: Boston, Minneapolis, Little Rock, and Philadelphia. Since our founding in 1998, we have interviewed over 80,000 parents and analyzed those data to determine the impact of public policies on the health and development of young children and their families' well-being.

In speaking with parents, we hear directly about the ways in which fear of deportation or immigration-related violence pushes families to be invisible. Families may disenroll from safety net programs(1), even when they are still eligible, and stop attending work(2), going to the grocery store(3), or sending their children to child care or activities.(4,5)

In research, we call this phenomenon the "chilling effect", demonstrated repeatedly to harm children's and parents' mental and physical health.(6,7) It is unacceptable to tolerate a society in which members of our community do not feel safe. We must not and cannot accept this as simply a "new" reality of our time, no matter who is in the Oval Office.

Children, in particular, bear these costs in unique and dangerous ways.(5,7) Our research shows that following proposed changes to immigration and safety net policies under the first Trump Administration, compared to children of US-born mothers, children of immigrant mothers were less likely to get the preventive health care they needed – jeopardizing early childhood health monitoring, vaccination, and chronic disease diagnosis and prevention--the building blocks for all future health outcomes.(8) Ultimately, this makes our communities less healthy.(9)

Immigration-related fear and violence are also devastating for mental health, causing children to regress developmentally.(10) For those who have already been separated from their parent, or who live in constant fear of them being detained, imagine thinking: When will mom or dad be taken from me? Even children whose families are not directly targeted are traumatized, disrupting brain development with long-term negative effects on health.(5)

Since the beginning of the second Trump administration only 11 months ago, we are already beginning to see chilling effects in our data; we measure “immigration status stress”, using a variety of situations like “I thought I could be deported if I went to social/government agency” and whether those situations had caused parents no, a little, or a lot of stress over the past year. We already see an uptick in the first 6 months of 2025 – in January to June 2024 compared to the same period in 2025, the prevalence of moderate or severe stress increased from 8% to 21% - a 144% increase.(11)

In addition to our research, Children’s HealthWatch leads the Healthy Families Tax Credits Coalition – a statewide network of more than 80 organizations and institutions dedicated to expanding access to refundable family tax credits in Massachusetts.

A major component of our coalition's work is promoting awareness and uptake of refundable tax credits. This includes helping immigrant and mixed status families file safely and confidently for support they’re entitled to: namely, the Child and Family Tax Credit, which the Legislature established last session and is available to immigrants who file taxes using an Individual Taxpayer Identification Number (ITIN).

Earlier this year, a data-sharing agreement between the Internal Revenue Service and Immigration and Customs Enforcement (ICE) sent shockwaves through immigrant communities.(12) This agreement breaks with long-standing federal precedent that tax information is private for all taxpayers and would not be used to target people for immigration enforcement. Even though parts of this agreement are now being challenged in court – including through a lawsuit led by one of our coalition partners – the damage is already unfolding.(13–15) Our partners who run free tax prep services throughout the Commonwealth are hearing from families who are afraid that filing their taxes – something they want to do – could put their loved ones or them at risk.

We are also deeply concerned about the threats of ICE presence at free tax prep sites, which are often co-located in public spaces like libraries and community centers. Even the perception that immigration enforcement could appear at tax-filing locations is enough to keep families home.(16) Many free tax prep sites’ leaders – especially those that serve large immigrant populations – are considering alternative options to respond to this fear, like offering virtual appointments. However, recent cuts to the state Volunteer Income Tax Assistance program (VITA) line item limits their capacity to do so.(17)

The consequences are far-reaching. Fewer immigrant families filing taxes means children lose access to refundable tax credits. These credits improve children’s health, reduce poverty, and help stabilize households – outcomes documented in decades of research.(18) When families don’t file, local communities also miss out on thousands of dollars of spending – including federal dollars.

While immigration policy is set at the federal level, Massachusetts leaders can and should do what is legally within their ability to ensure our vibrant immigrant communities feel safe and welcomed in this state. While ICE enforcement and agency data-sharing agreements are federal, the climate of fear around accessing local services is very much shaped by state and local policy.

This is why the Safe Communities Act is so critical. By ensuring that Massachusetts police cannot be deputized as federal immigration agents, and by prohibiting officers from inquiring about immigration status, you help restore a basic level of trust. Families need to know that interacting with community institutions and services – including tax preparers – will not put them in danger.(9)

At a time when high costs of living and new eligibility restrictions on programs that help families, including our immigrant neighbors, are making it hard to meet basic needs, refundable tax credits are one of the few remaining tools families have to stay afloat. But families cannot access them, and our broader communities cannot benefit, if they are too afraid to file.

Passing the Safe Communities Act is not only the right thing to do – it is an evidence-based strategy to protect our residents and support child health and family stability.

Sincerely,

Stephanie Ettinger de Cuba, PhD, MPH
Executive Director, Children's HealthWatch
Research Associate Professor, Boston University School of Public Health and Chobanian & Avedisian School of Medicine
Boston, MA

Charlotte Bruce, MPH
Director of Policy, Children's HealthWatch
Boston, MA

Citations

1. Haley JM, Kenney GM, Bernstein H, Gonzalez D. One in Five Adults in Immigrant Families with Children Reported Chilling Effects on Public Benefit Receipt in 2019 [Internet]. Urban Institute; 2020 June. Available from: <https://www.urban.org/research/publication/one-five-adults-immigrant-families-children-reported-chilling-effects-public-benefit-receipt-2019>
2. Moreschi A, Aaron N. Immigration raids having chilling effect on construction labor. Komo News [Internet]. Spotlight on America. 2025 June 16; Available from: <https://komonews.com/news/spotlight-on-america/immigration-raids-having-chilling-effect-on-construction-labor>
3. Di Gregorio R. "Living in absolute fear" Jacksonville lawyer says immigrant families afraid to get groceries. First Coast - ABC News [Internet]. 2025 Jan 29; Available from: <https://www.firstcoastnews.com/article/news/crime/living-in-absolute-fear-jacksonville-attorney-says-immigrant-families-afraid-to-even-go-to-the-grocery-store/77-d59bd325-e8a2-4301-8955-087008573129>
4. Pillai D, Artiga S, Rae M. Potential Impacts of Increased Immigration Enforcement on School Attendance and Funding [Internet]. KFF; 2025 Apr. (Racial Equity and Health Policy). Available from: <https://www.kff.org/racial-equity-and-health-policy/potential-impacts-of-increased-immigration-enforcement-on-school-attendance-and-funding/>
5. American Immigration Council. U.S. Citizen Children Impacted by Immigration Enforcement [Internet]. 2021 June. Available from: <https://www.americanimmigrationcouncil.org/fact-sheet/us-citizen-children-impacted-immigration-enforcement/>
6. Bovell-Ammon A, Ettinger de Cuba S, Cutts DB. Immigrant-Inclusive Policies Promote Child and Family Health. Am J Public Health. 2022 Dec 1;112(12):1735–7.
7. Pillai A, Pillai D, Artiga S. Potential Impacts of Mass Detention and Deportation Efforts on the Health and Well-Being of Immigrant Families. KFF; 2025 Feb. (Racial Equity and Health Policy).
8. Ettinger de Cuba S, Miller DP, Raifman J, Cutts DB, Bovell-Ammon A, Frank DA, et al. Reduced health care utilization among young children of immigrants after Donald Trump's election and proposed public charge rule. Health Affairs Scholar. 2023 Aug 1;1(2):qxad023.
9. Lopez WD, Kruger DJ, Delva J, Llanes M, Ledón C, Waller A, et al. Health Implications of an Immigration Raid: Findings from a Latino Community in the Midwestern United States. Journal of Immigrant and Minority Health. 2017 June 1;19(3):702–8.
10. Ettinger de Cuba S, Jones DK, Cutts D, Bovell-Ammon A, Lê-Scherban F, Sandel M, et al. "But who takes care of the mom?": The daily experiences of immigrant mothers navigating health in family life. Social Science & Medicine. 2025 May 1;372:117948.
11. Children's HealthWatch Data 2024-2025. Author's Analysis. Unpublished.

12. Turton W, Bing C, Asher-Schapiro A. The IRS Is Building a Vast System to Share Millions of Taxpayers' Data With ICE. ProPublica [Internet]. 2025 July 15; Available from: <https://www.propublica.org/article/trump-irs-share-tax-records-ice-dhs-deportations>
13. Betancourt S. Lawsuit aims to stop taxpayer information sharing with ICE. GBH News [Internet]. 2025 Oct 1; Available from: <https://www.wgbh.org/news/local/2025-10-01/lawsuit-aims-to-stop-taxpayer-information-sharing-with-ice>
14. Asian Law Caucus, Greater Boston Legal Services. Taxpayer and Immigrant Advocates Sue ICE, IRS, and Social Security Administration to Stop Information Sharing [Internet]. 2025. Available from: <https://www.asianlawcaucus.org/news-resources/news/advocates-sue-ice-irs-ssa-stop-information-sharing>
15. MIRA Coalition. A Betrayal of Trust: How the IRS-DHS Data Sharing Deal Threatens Immigrants and Massachusetts Tax Revenue [Internet]. 2025. Available from: <https://miracoalition.org/news/a-betrayal-of-trust-how-the-irs-dhs-data-sharing-deal-threatens-immigrants-and-massachusetts-tax-revenue/>
16. Preciado A. ICE, IRS agreement: Immigrant tax filing down, preparers say. Fox6 - Milwaukee [Internet]. 2025 Apr 11; Available from: <https://www.fox6now.com/news/ice-irs-immigrant-tax-filing-fear>
17. Healthy Families Tax Credits Coalition. Letter to the MA Administration Regarding VITA Funding in Fiscal Year 26 [Internet]. 2025. Available from: <https://childrenshealthwatch.org/letter-to-the-ma-administration-regarding-vita-funding-in-fiscal-year-26/>
18. Ettinger de Cuba S, Coleman SM, Bovell-Ammon A, Cutts D, Sandel M, Ochoa Jr E, et al. Expanded Child Tax Credit and the Association with Family Health and Material Hardships. JAMA Network Open. 2025 June 30.